KINC ANNOUNCES STRATEGIC PARTNERSHIP WITH DMA ARCHITECTS

Kinc, Inc. is pleased to announce the formation of a strategic partnership with DMA Architects - a Chicago-based full service architectural, planning, and interior design firm servicing residential, commercial, and institutional clients. DMA is also LEED certified and has experience in historic renovation.

The combination of DMA's solid technical knowledge and Kinc's creative custom design skills will give clients the opportunity to make far-reaching and arresting design statements from the very inception of any project.

"We often have clients coming to us months or even years after the completion of a building, asking us to design accent pieces or develop interior environments that will make an impact on visitors," states Kinc founding partner Karen Zissis. "We end up working within pre-set limitations of rooms which were never intended to support sculpture or murals, or don't lend easily to environmental overhaul. Partnering with DMA, our clients now have the opportunity to integrate custom design and visual branding into their space from the very start. Working together to realize the client's vision, DMA will provide structural design in sync with Kinc's artistic contributions, creating a unified visual message that's part of a master building plan."

In addition to broadening the scope of their work, Kinc's partnership with DMA eliminates the need for many sub-contractors, and gives clients a tight chain of communication on key design issues which not only ensures design integrity, but speeds up delivery and minimizes costs.

"I don't know of another partnership like this in Chicagoland," states Kinc Founding Partner Katherine Ross. "We're looking forward to breaking new ground, not only with residential and commercial buildings, but museum installations, churches, schools, retail shops... anyone who wants to make a strong visual statement."
